The National Examinations Council of Tanzania is pleased to issue the Advanced Certificate of Secondary Education Examination (ACSEE) 2015 item response analysis booklet in 112 History subject. This report provides feedback to students, teachers, parents, policy makers and the public in general about the performance of the candidates.

The Advanced Certificate in Secondary Education Examination marks the end of the two years of Advanced Secondary Education. It is a summative evaluation which among other things shows the effectiveness of education system in general and education delivery system in particular. Essentially, candidates' responses to the examination questions is a strong indicator of what the education system was able or unable to offer to the students in their two years of Advanced Secondary School Education.

The analysis presented in this report intends to contribute towards understanding how the candidates responded in this examination. The report analyses the performance and factors behind candidates' good/poor performance in each question. The feedback provided will enable the educational administrators, school managers, teachers, students and other stakeholders to identify proper measures to be taken in order to improve candidates' performance in future examinations administered by the Council.

The National Examinations Council of Tanzania will highly appreciate comments and suggestions from teachers, students and the public in general that can be used for improving future performance in examinations.

Finally, the Council would like to thank the Examination officers, examiners and all others who participated in the preparation of this report.

EXECUTIVE SECRETARY

1.0 INTRODUCTION

The ACSEE 2015 History examination covered the 2009 Syllabus and the 2011 Examination Format. It consisted of two papers (1 and 2) and each paper comprised three (3) sections namely; A, B and C. Section A and B each comprised four (4) questions from which the candidates were required to choose two (2) questions from each section. Section C had two (2) questions and the candidates were required to choose one (1) question from this Section. The candidates were required to attempt a total of five (5) questions in each paper and every question carried 20 marks.

This report analyses the performance of 112 History for the School Candidates who sat for the Advanced Certificate of Secondary Education Examination (ACSEE) in 2015. It aims at giving a feedback to the educational stakeholders on the performance of the candidates in each question by stating what the candidates were required to do in each question, highlighting the performance analysis and indicating candidates' strengths and weaknesses in their responses.

A total of 11,227 candidates sat for the ACSEE 2015 History paper out of which 11,223 candidates (99.96%) passed with grade A - D while the rest 04 candidates (0.04%) failed by obtaining grade E - F. Generally, candidates' performance in this subject increased by 0.06 percent compared with that of 2014 in which out of 13,321 candidates who sat for that examination, 13,308 candidates (99.9%) passed and 13 candidates (0.1%) failed.

Samples of candidates' extracts are attached to illustrate their responses. It is expected that the report will enable teachers and students to improve the teaching and learning process of History subject.

2.0 ANALYSIS OF THE CANDIDATES' PERFORMANCE IN EACH QUESTION: (PAPER ONE)

2.1. Question 1

The requirements of the question was to compare and contrast between African and European feudal systems during the 15th century by analyzing three similarities and three differences of the two feudal systems. The question was constructed from the topic "Africa and Europe during the 15th Century". It was one of the most opted and fairly scored as 76.1 percent attempted it with only 2 candidates (0.0 %) scoring a 00 mark while 1.7 percent scored from 01 to 5.5 marks, 29.1 percent scored from 06 to 9.5 marks and the majority (69.2%) scored from 10 to 20 marks.

Most candidates probably opted for this question because it was drawn from the topic whose contents are commonly taught in both History One and Two, that is, Pre-colonial African Societies and The rise of Capitalism in Europe respectively thus such candidates might have exhausted a wider coverage. Moreover, apart from being taught in both papers candidates were likely to possess good background knowledge on this topic from 'O' level syllabus.

By virtue of their well understanding and possession of enough knowledge of what was required, some candidates scored 10 marks and above. Such candidates were able to elaborate points clearly with vivid examples. Their mastery of the subject matter was clearly shown across their introductions, main bodies and conclusions. Extract 1.1 is an illustration of a candidate who performed well in this question.

Extract 1.1 shows an example of a candidate who managed to analyse the three similarities and differences between the African and European feudal systems during the 15th Century.

The candidates whose marks ranged from 06 to 9.5 showed a combination of weaknesses though they possessed a considerable strength to qualify for few marks. The weaknesses observed in their work include; failure to exhaust the required number of points, mixing correct and incorrect responses and inadequate explanations. With such weaknesses, they could not fully exhaust the question demands.

Moreover, scorers of 01 to 5.5 marks suffered from great deficiencies. Their responses were largely characterised by a lot of inadequacies such as shallow explanations with many candidates being able to outline some points without giving any detail while others could only provide very few relevant points on the similarities of African and European feudal systems but could not score any mark from the second part of the question and vice versa. Moreover, some mixed few relevant points with the general explanations on the levels of development of Africa and Europe.

Two candidates who scored a 00 mark, misinterpreted the question and thus provided irrelevant responses. One candidate for example, explained the types of feudal systems that developed in East Africa such as Nyarubanja, Umwinyi and Busulo. Surprisingly, another candidate focused on the development reached by Europe and Africa as shown in extract 1.2 below.

Extract 1.2 shows a candidate whose comparisons and contrasts portray the development reached by Europe and Africa during the 15th century contrary to the requirement of the question.

2.2 Question 2

To fulfill the requisites of the question, candidates were to elaborate six factors which hindered the success of the "Back to Africa Movement". The question was set from the topic: "People of African Origin in the New World". It was one of the most attempted and well scored as 74.7 percent of the candidates attempted it of which only one candidate (0.0%) scored a 00 mark and very few candidates (1.7%) scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks, 34.7 percent scored from 06 to 9.5 marks while the majority of the candidates (63.6%) scored from 10 to 16.5 marks.

The question probably won the choice of most candidates since it was extracted from a topic which is sharing contents with other topics such as "The Rise of Capitalism in Europe". Not only that but also Marcus Garvey the architect of the "Back to Africa Movement" is among the outstanding figures of the black activists in America. This has probably made the "Back to Africa Movement" more attractive to history candidates.

The candidates who scored from 10 to 16.5 marks possessed the required qualities for a good answer. Their explanations were clear and they were mostly able to meet the required number of points. Some points like insufficient resources, divisions among the Blacks and strong opposition from the American government were well featured in their responses. However, variations in their scores were caused by some distortions observed in some candidates' work like making repetition of few points and inclusion of irrelevant examples. Extract 2.1 reveals a relatively good response.

Extract 2.1 is an example of a candidate who managed to explain the obstacles which black Africans faced in their back to Africa Movement.

The candidates who scored from 06 to 9.5 marks showed a better understanding of the task of the question but portrayed some weaknesses which hindered them to score higher marks. Such weaknesses were; mixing correct and incorrect responses, inability to exhaust the required number of points, repetition of some points and failure to provide elaborate answers.

Most of the responses of the candidates whose scores ranged from 0.5 to 5.5 marks differed in weaknesses. Most of the candidates either responded on the general problems that faced the People of African origin in the Diaspora or the success of the Back to Africa Movement instead of highlighting the challenges that faced the Movement. However, such candidates could only score a mark from the introduction. Moreover candidates whose responses ranged from 1.5 to 5.5 marks either outlined few correct points or their explanations portrayed some partial relevance.

A candidate who scored a 00 mark, probably read the question hastily thus went off point by writing issues which were totally contrary to the question demands. This candidate responded on the reasons for the Back to Africa movement instead of the hindrances of the successes of the movement as it is shown in the part of his/her responses in the extract 2.2 below.

Extract 2.2 indicates a part of the candidate's response which embodies the reasons for the Back to Africa movement instead of the hindrances of the successes of the movement.

2.3 Question 3

The question was derived from the topic "Pre – colonial African Societies". It required the candidates to explain six roles of Islamic religion in the formation of Pre-colonial West African states. It was one of the least attempted as only 1,654 candidates (14.7%) opted for it. However, its performance was relatively good as no candidate scored a 00 mark, 1.9 percent scored from 01 to 5.5 marks, 29.2 percent scored from 06 to 9.5 marks whereas the majority (68.9%) scored from 10 to 15 marks.

The candidates who scored from 10 to 15 marks revealed to have knowledge and clear understanding of the question needs. They managed to explain on how Islamic religion contributed to the formation and consolidation of states such as strengthening unity, improving administration and moral standards, provision of education and strengthening the development of strong armies. The variations in their scores were associated with various reasons basing on the understanding of the subject matter of the question, for example exactness of explanations on relevant points and provision of relevant examples. Extract 3.1 portrays a sample of a relatively good response in this question.

Extract 3 is an example of a candidate who elaborated the contributions of Islamic religion in the development of pre-colonial West African States.

The candidates who scored from 6 to 9.5 marks showed better understanding of the question by elaborating some correct points but they failed to suffice the needs for a better answer because their responses were affected by a number of limitations such as mixing correct and incorrect responses, giving incorrect examples and repetition of some points.

Furthermore, the andidates who scored from 01 to 5.5 marks showed various weaknesses in their responses. Majority of them relied on the general factors for state formation like role of standing army, capable leaders and geographical advantages while others could only outline the points. Moreover, other candidates failed to comprehend the concept of the question, for example, they came out with the reasons for the Jihad Movements such as the need to purify Islam, selling of Muslims into slavery and the need to establish the rule of law which were not in favour of the task stipulated in the question. Such candidates could score a mark from the introduction part.

2.4 Question 4

The question was composed from the topic: "From colonialism to the First World War (1880s to 1914)". In this question, candidates were asked to examine the functions of the colonial state and to explain its four characteristics. It was one among the least attempted question since only 33.7 percent of all the candidates attempted it. However, candidates' performance was good as no candidate scored a 00 mark, 1.2 percent scored from 1.5 to 5.5 marks, 22.5 percent scored from 06 to 9.5 marks and the majority (76.3%) had their marks ranging from 10 to 19 marks.

The candidates who scored from 10 to 19 marks demonstrated a good mastery of the question. They explained on the points like; maintenance of peace and order, supervision of production and serving as agent of Western culture among others as functions of colonial state and the characteristics of colonial state were featured by points like violence in nature, dependence on metropolitan state and exploitative in nature. Variations in performance (from 10 to 19 marks) were mainly caused by failure of some candidates to meet the number of the instructed points (four in each part) and disparity in the clarity of their explanations. Extract 4 indicates a sample of the candidates who managed to provide good answers.

Extract 4 is an example of a candidate who responded on the functions and characteristics of the Colonial State relatively well.

The candidates who scored from 06 to 9.5 marks mostly answered the question correctly by explaining well only on either the functions or the characteristics of the colonial state. Most of them provided better responses on the characteristics of colonial state than on the functions of colonial state while others presented correct responses alongside wrong ones on both parts of the question.

On the other hands, candidates who scored from 1.5 to 5.5 marks provided responses which were largely diverging from what was desired. Some outlined the points only while others presented few correct points basing on one part of the question that is either the functions or the characteristics of the colonial state. Moreover, there were some who went astray by presenting information which appeared completely out of question demands like the characteristics of the colonial economy and reasons for colonization of Africa in one part of this question, but they could score some marks in the other part of the question, such as the introductions and the conclusions.

2.5 Question 5

The question was set from the topic "Colonial economy and Social Services after the Second World War". It called for three notable features and three effects of colonial health services. Of all the questions, this question had a least frequency as only 10 percent of the candidates attempted it. The candidates' performance however was relatively good as no candidate scored a 00 mark and the minority scored below 10 marks (4.6 percent scored from 01 to 5.5, 25.5 percent scored from 06 to 9.5) while the majority (69.9%) scored from 10 to 16.5 marks

A demonstration of relatively better answer layouts and knowledge was witnessed in the work of candidates who scored from 10 to 16.5 marks. They revealed a greater competence in what was desired from them. Points like; services were racially based, concentrated in urban centers and productive areas were noted as features of colonial health services while points like unequal development, converting some people into Christianity and neglecting African traditional medicines were pointed out as effects of colonial health services. Probably, what might have boosted easy understanding and interpretation of the question is the fact that some features of health Services closely relate to or denote the effects of colonial health services. Extract 5 provides a sample of one of the good responses.

Extract 5 is a sample of a candidate who responded fairly well on question by proving features of colonial health services and their impact on Africa.

The candidates whose marks ranged from 06 to 10 responded only on one part of the question more correctly than the other part. Moreover they mixed up correct and incorrect points on either one or both parts of the question. Furthermore, one of the notable weakness observed in this group was inability of some candidates to differentiate the features of colonial health services from their effects, for example points like; neglecting African traditional medicines and unequal development were noted as features by some candidates instead of effects of colonial health services.

The candidates who scored from 01 to 5.5 marks demonstrated various weaknesses in their responses such as presenting few correct points which were partially elaborated on one part of the question that is either the features or effects of colonial health services, outlining points without elaborations and scoring a mark only from the introduction.

2.6 Question 6

This question was derived from the topic "Colonial Economy and Social Services after the Second World War". Candidates were demanded to explain six objectives of introducing Progressive Farmers in Africa after the Second World War. The question was attempted by a relatively few candidates (13.4%) probably due the fact that the topic "Colonial Economy and Social Services after the Second World War" challenged them more than its counterpart "Influence of External Forces to the Rise of African Nationalism and Struggle for Independence" of the same section "B" thus they preferred opting for question seven and eight. Despite its low frequency however, the candidates' performance was promising since only two candidates (0.0%) scored a 00 mark, 5.1 percent scored from 01 to 05.5 mark, 21.7 percent scored from 06 to 9.5 mark and majority of them (73.2%) scored from 10 to 17 marks.

The candidates who scored from 10 to 17 marks managed to provide a good presentation of their essays and their responses were embodied with supportive examples. They were able to provide a correct concept of Progressive Farmers and its objectives like; boosting crop production, maintaining the colonial policy of divide and rule, consolidating capitalist relations in the colonies and expanding markets for European manufactured goods. The disparities in their scores were due to inequality in the level of mastery of the subject matter and ability to elaborate more clearly. Extract 6.1 discloses one of the candidates' good response.

Extract 6. is a sample of a candidate who responded relatively well on this question by highlighting the rationale of introducing master farmers in Africa.

Observation on the candidates' responses with 06 to 9.5 marks reveals that many candidates showed ability to point out a few objectives of introducing Progressive Farmers but could not support their points with concrete explanations while others either lacked specific examples to clarify their points or provided false ones. With such limitations they could not score higher marks.

The scorers of 01 to 05.5 marks mostly gave the general objectives or significance of introducing colonial agriculture thus attained few marks from the few points which related to the objectives of introducing progressive farmers. Such marks varied in that range depending on clarity of their explanations.

The two candidates who scored a 00 mark showed lack of knowledge on Progressive Farmers. One candidate for example perceived Progressive Farmers as settler farmers while the other related these farmers with State plantations. With such wrong approaches their responses were liable for a 00 score.

2.7 Question 7

This question which was drawn from the topic: "The Influence of External Forces, the Rise of Nationalism and Struggle for Independence in Africa" required the candidates to examine the causes of the rise of Pan – African Movement and to show the significance of such movement in the rise of African nationalism. Being derived from the topic in which the candidates had background knowledge from a Form Four topic of "African Nationalism" and "People of African Origin in the New World" which is covered in Form Five, the question seemed to be more familiar to candidates as they were able to transfer the knowledge from such previous topics in answering it. The question was attempted by many candidates (87.2%) who scored generously since no candidate scored a 00 mark, 1.4 percent scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks, 15.8 percent scored from 06 to 9.5 marks and the rest candidates (82.8%) had their marks ranging from 10 to 18.

A reasonable number of candidates scored from 10 to 18 marks. Most of them possessed sufficient knowledge on Pan Africanism and its role towards African nationalism. Causes like intensive exploitation of people of African origin, feeling of homelessness, segregation, role of black leaders and the role of American independence (1776) were stipulated as causes while on the side of significance of Pan Africanism towards the rise of African Nationalism, points like provision of a forum to discuss their common problems, formation of OAU and raising awareness were featured. The variations in their scores however, were due to the disparities in the strengths of their arguments. Extract 7.1 is a sample of a relevant response in this question.

Extract 7.1 shows an example of a candidate who was able to examine the three causes of the rise of Pan – African Movement and show its three significance in the rise of nationalism in Africa.

A group whose score ranged from 06 to 9.5 marks possessed major desired qualities as they highlighted relevant points more correctly. However, their chances for higher scores were curtailed by some limitations like the imbalance in scores from the two parts of the question that is causes of Pan-African Movement and its significance in the rise of African nationalism. Some of them answered correctly the second part of the question which called for the significance of Pan Africanism in the rise of African nationalism more than the first part.

The candidates who scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks could at least mention and provide explanations on few points especially on the significance of the Movement in the rise of African nationalism which could not make them score higher marks. Generally, many candidates in this category were victims of misconceptions. Despite pointing out some few relevant responses, the majority deviated from the focus of the question demand, for example some explained the problems the People of African origin suffered in their liberation struggle by pinpointing points like "the blacks were few in number and the blacks were financially weak", others dealt with the aims of Pan-African Movement while others provided the general contributing factors for the rise of African Nationalism like the role of UNO, the role of USA and the role of USSR. A notable strength however, was their ability to provide relevant introductions and conclusions. Extract 7.2 is a part of the candidate's response who explained the significance of Pan Africanism which were not asked in this question.

In extract 7.2, the candidate explained the points which sound like the significance of Pan Africanisms which do not match with decolonization processes in Africa.

2.8 Question 8

Like its counterpart (question 7), this question was also derived from the topic "Influence of External Force, the Rise of African Nationalism and Struggle for Independence". It also had two parts with the first part demanding candidates to explain the reasons which forced the USSR to support decolonization processes in Africa and the second one demanding the candidates to show how she (USSR) supported the process of Africa decolonization. Similarly it shared the same attractions and background to many candidates like question seven (7). Moreover, this question had an added advantage of being popular to most candidates since Tanzania was a close ally of the USSR during the decolonization processes thus candidates could easily transfer the knowledge of the means through which USSR supported Tanzania to the decolonization of Africa. Such advantages possibly influenced the choice of majority of the candidates in this section by harvesting 88.4 percent of the candidates of which four candidates (0.0%) scored a 00 mark, 2.1 percent scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks, 24.3 percent scored from 6 to 9.5 marks and a good number of candidates (73.6%) scored from 10 to 18 marks.

The candidates whose scores ranged from 10 to 18 marks were able to explain the required points like; the need for containment of capitalism, spread of socialist ideology and the USSR industrial demands as among the reasons for USSR to support African decolonization and provision of moral and Material support, use of her VETO power in the UNO and ideological support which described the means the USSR used to facilitate decolonization process of African States. However, their marks ranged from 10 to 18 due to the divergence in their ability to provide the desired answers and relevant examples. Extract 8 provides a sample of a relatively good response in this question.

A part of the response in extract 8 illustrates a candidate who was able to elaborate the reasons and ways through which USSR supported decolonization process in Africa.

The candidates who scored from 06 to 9.5 marks failed to demonstrate better understanding of the question to qualify for higher mark. Since the question had two (2) parts, some managed to respond well on only one part of the question and others mixed the correct and incorrect responses while others made repetitions of some points thus limited them from higher scores.

The candidates whose marks ranged from 0.5 to 5.5 could score at least some marks in the main body after mentioning some reasons and means through which USSR supported decolonization process in Africa but provided vague explanations. Candidates who failed to score a mark in the main body could score a mark in the introduction. Moreover, other candidates who explained the general factors for the rise of African nationalism could score a mark from the introduction and the point on the role of the USSR.

It was hard for the candidates to score a 00 mark in this question just like the case of question seven (7). However, four candidates who went astray had their discussion revolving around the causes and impact of the Cold War probably due to the fact that the USSR was directly concerned in the Cold War. Surprisingly, one candidate's responses centered on the USA thus provided responses which were irrelevant to a greater extent.

2.9 Question 9

The question was constructed from the topic "Political and Economic Development in Tanzania since independence". It demanded the candidates to analyse six challenges to industrial development in Tanzania. It attracted 50.5 percent of all the candidates of which only 0.4 percent scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks, 12.3 percent scored from 06 to 9.5 marks while the majority (87.3%) scored from 9.5 to 18.5 marks.

These data reveal a good performance which might be attributed to the fact that issues on the economic development in Tanzania are popular among most Tanzanians since they have direct impact on their lives. Furthermore, the topic from which the question was set is taught in other subjects like Geography, General Studies and Economics hence the candidates might have exhausted a wider coverage of the topic.

To a greater extent, candidates who scored from 10 to 18.5 marks portrayed deep understanding of the subject matter by showing relevant and current problems facing industrial development in Tanzania by providing specific examples to support their arguments. Their responses featured points like poor technology, weak linkage between economic sectors like agriculture and trade and lack of enough skilled labour in scientific and technological fields. However, the variations in their scores were caused by differences in their elaborations and clarity of examples given. Extract 9.1 reveals a good response.

Extract 9.1 is an example of candidate's response in which the challenges to industrial development in Tanzania were relatively clearly analysed.

The candidates who scored from 06 to 9.5 marks possessed some weaknesses and strengths in their explanations. Most of them were able to point out the correct points but failed to provide elaborate answers and cite specific examples in Tanzania, others presented outlined points but provided very partial explanations while others failed to meet the number of points required in the question.

The candidates who scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks were unable to produce what was really expected for a good response. Some simply outlined the points, some mixed relevant points with different information concerning the economic problems facing Tanzania while others provided partial explanations on their correct points which denied them reasonable marks. A few number of candidates totally diverted from the requisites of the question probably due to their failure to understand the terminology "challenge to" employed in the question thus they explained either on the effects or the means of promoting industrial development in Tanzania. However; such candidates could score a mark from the introduction part. Extract 9.2 is an example of a part of the candidate's responses which diverted from the question demands.

Extract 9.2 is an example of the candidates who misconceived the question by providing the negative effects of industrialization instead of the challenges to industrial development in Tanzania.

2.10 Question 10

The question required the candidates to justify the inevitability of economic crisis in Tanzania by using six reasons. It was also set from the topic "Political and Economic Development in Tanzania since Independence". A total of 5539 candidates (49.1%) attempted this question of which only 1 candidate (0.0%) scored a 00 mark, 0.9 percent scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks, 22.4 percent scored from 06 to 9.5 marks and 76.7 percent scored from 6 to 16.5 marks.

Good performance of the majority of the candidates in this question might have been caused by availability of many sources of information since Tanzania's economic crisis is widely discussed on mass media, public meetings of politicians, educationists and economic activists. Additionally the crisis on Tanzania's economy is experienced by people in their daily life thus its root causes is likely to be known.

The Candidates whose scores ranged from 10 to 16.5 marks showed better knowledge on the economic crisis in Tanzania. They reflected on both the past and the current situation of Tanzania, for example, points like natural calamities, low levels of technology, dependence on foreign aids, monoculture economy, corruption and poor planning polished their answers. Variations in their scores however, were caused by difference in their abilities to relate correct points (arguments) to Tanzania's situation and giving specific examples. Extract 10.1 is an example of a relatively good response.

Extract 10.1 indicates a sample of the responses from a candidate who managed to provide a more illustrated answer to this question.

The candidates who scored from 06 to 9.5 marks managed to interpret the question but came up with few well elaborated arguments. Though some presented the required number of points but they were curtailed by shallow explanations and lack of vivid examples. Moreover, some of them repeated the points, for example, the most repeated points were "Natural Calamities" which many split into points like floods and droughts as separate points while lack of expert and lack of skilled labour were discussed as separate points by some candidates.

The candidates whose scores ranged from 0.5 to 5.5 marks revealed several weaknesses such as scoring a mark from the introduction but failing to interpret the word "inevitable" hence writing off points in the main body or failing to meet the required number of points and outlining relevant points but failing to elaborate them.

A candidate who scored a 00 mark misinterpreted the question as a result he/she wrote on the solution to be undertaken in solving economic problems facing Tanzania as extract 10.2 below shows.

3.0 ANALYSIS OF THE CANDIDATES' PERFORMANCE IN EACH QUESTION: (PAPER TWO)

3.1 Question 1

This question was derived from the topic "Rise of Democracy in Europe". The requisite of the question was to analyse the impact of the English Glorious Revolution on the Development of Democracy in Europe. A total of 4307 candidates (61.8%) attempted this question of which 1.8 percent scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks, 21.2 percent scored from 6 to 9.5 while majority of them (77%) scored from 10 to 17 marks.

The candidates whose scores ranged from 10 to 17 marks showed a better understanding of the question by presenting well elaborated arguments and relevant examples. They were able to build correctly strong arguments on points like; abolition of all forms of King's absolutism, increase of freedom of worship and stimulating the occurrence of other revolutions like the 1789 French revolution. The range in their scores (10 to 17) was determined by the ability of some individual candidates to produce more detailed and clearer explanations than others. Extract 11 is a sample of a relatively good response in this question.

Gloriary revolution had some weaknesses such as catholics were still segregated in political

Extract 11.1 shows an analysis of the impact of the English Glorious revolution on the development of democracy in Europe.

The candidates who scored from 6 to 10 marks were able to interpret the question relatively well though they were also subjected to some deficiencies which denied them better marks, for example, some explained the impact of Glorious Revolution to the rise of democracy in Britain only and not in the whole European continent as the question required, others stipulated correct points but were unable to clarify them exhaustively while others lacked examples in some points.

Some candidates whose scores ranged from 0.5 to 5.5 marks failed to relate the impact of the revolution with the rise of democracy though they managed to provide some relevant introductions. On the other hand, some candidates misinterpreted the question by showing the contribution of the Glorious revolution to the rise of capitalism instead of the rise of democracy hence scored few marks from the points which showed the contributions of the revolution to the rise of both democracy and capitalism. Such points include; "the rise of middle class" and "the increase of class struggle between the bourgeoisie and the workers" which embodied the elements of the growth of democracy.

3.2 Question 2

This question which was composed from the topic "The Rise of Capitalism in Europe" called for candidates to examine six factors for the rise of commercial capitalism. It was expected to attract many candidates bearing in mind that the topic in which it was extracted is taught in ordinary level and it is a popular topic which links the development of capitalism with colonization of Africa. However, less than a half of all the candidates (49.2%) attempted it. The use of the terms "commercial capitalism" might have obstructed some candidates who are used to the concept "Commercial revolution" or "Mercantilism" to opt for it. However, the candidates' performance in this question was good since only 5 candidates (0.1%) scored a 00 mark, 5.2 percent scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks, 35. 8 percent scored from 6 to 9.5 marks and more than a half (58.9%) had their marks ranging from 10 to 18.

The candidates who scored from 10 to 18 marks were able to provide sufficient number of points with detailed explanations and relevant examples. Points like; prior accumulation of capital, geographical discoveries and the rise of national states interested in trade were laid down. However, the variation of scores (from 10 to 18 marks) was caused by a number of weaknesses displayed by some candidates in their arguments such as inclusion of some irrelevant examples and points and on the other hand the strength in arguments and relevance of examples displayed by others. Extract 12.1 portrays an example of a good response.

Extract 12.1

a. Commercial capitalism refers to the resolution that took place on the European commerce and it happened from the davelopment of trade both internally and international level. Around the 15the commercial revolution came across especially from the development of mercantilosm and of marked the fort phase of the rose and development on caputation. There have been various forms reasons that gave nice to the commercial revolution on Europe and can be analysed as follows.
The rise and development of merchant class.
The merchant class rose and managed to engage on trading activities and marked the diversopication of the economy from agriculture. They managed to exchange goods on the roccety and hence were able to accumulate capital. They took changes of reekong and dominating of the external market and dominated the international trade.
Through their they managed to consolidate and amalgama ted the trade and commerce of turpe hence the commercial revolution.
The role played by the monarchial government. The home government wothen the terrotonies highly influenced the development of commerce-Favoured from the accumulation of capital such as bulloons and othe raw materials, the morards created terms and and trons that favoured the use of commerce. They affered potestion to the merchants which had smoothened Arading. Also the monarcher instructed various laws such as the nangation laws which were forms of tanger arming at Establishing a strong internal market from domination of external traders. A good example, is Britain under the tudor monarche, who through the navigation laws managed to consolidate pritain's commirce and gave use to her commercial Revolutions Influence of the manne technology. The

All this were essential markets and labour availability which came to exist The European commerce. Example of the nations benefited from the technology include spain, belgium, nd and Britain as well as Party gal The development and Introduction of money economy. Money on form of currencies came dominate the tumpean economy. It a medicin of exchange through which trade transactions were made. The development of morey economy eavened process of exchange and as well as of aportal. Therefore trade and commerce developed people now found a new way of gaining wealth within the European continent. Extract 12.1 is an example of a candidate who was able to present a well argued answer in this question.

Responses in the range of 06 to 9.5 marks had a relatively few limitations such as insufficient number of points, lack of adequate explanations, relevant examples and factual elaborations in some of the arguments.

The responses of candidates who scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks left some aspects which were desired for higher scores, for example, many in this range of score managed to highlight the relevant points but failed to show how they contributed to the development of capitalism while others had few correct points but their explanations were weak to deserve better scores. Moreover, some candidates provided relevant introductions but their responses in the main body were irrelevant.

The candidates who scored a 00 mark either misinterpreted the question or presented ideas which are not related to the topic from which the question originated, for example some candidates who misinterpreted the question addressed the factors for the rise of capitalism by stipulating points like industrial and political revolutions. In this regard, such candidates could not score any mark. Extract 12.2 is an example of a poor response from a candidate with poor idea on the term "commercial capitalism".

3.3 Question 3

The question was set from the topic "Imperialism and Territorial Division of the World". With the aid of vivid examples, candidates were to explain the reasons which made some areas in Africa to experience intensive scramble than others. It was one among the least attempted question since only 32.6 percent of all the candidates attempted it. However, its performance was good since only three candidates (0.1%) scored a 00 mark, 4.7 percent scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks, 25 percent scored from 6 to 9.5 marks and the majority (70.2%) had their marks ranging from 10 to 18.5 marks.

The candidates whose scores ranged from 10 to 18.5 marks were able to give the specific reasons which caused intensive scramble for some areas by citing specific examples of areas which experienced intensive scramble to justify their arguments, for example, points like strategic areas were accompanied by examples like Egypt and Congo while accessibility to the interior was supported by examples like the Niger and the Congo basins due to the navigability of Niger and Congo rivers respectively. The disparity in their scores was due to strengths and weaknesses in the points elaborated and relevancy of examples given. Extract 13.1 provides a good example of a good response.

Extract 13.1 is a sample of a candidate's work which illustrates clearly the reasons why some areas were intensively scrambled for than others in Africa.

The reasons for some candidates to score from 6 to 9.5 marks varied. The major causes were inadequate explanations on some points, lack of specific examples and providing the reasons for intensive scramble of some areas alongside the reasons for scramble for and partition of Africa. However, a notable weakness in their responses was poor presentations since majority of them explained more on the areas which experienced intensive scramble than relating their explanations with the reasons as to why such areas were intensively scrambled.

The candidates who scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks showed several weaknesses and very minimal strengths. In most cases, the majority in this group focused their explanations on the areas which experienced intensive scramble and not on the reasons for scrambling such areas thus qualified for some few marks depending on the qualities of their explanations. Moreover, others could score some marks from the introduction only.

The candidates who scored a 00 mark certainly failed to grasp the demands of the question. Two of them argued on reasons for colonization of Africa whereas points like European Balance of Power, rise of European nationalism and the effects of economic imperialism were expounded while one candidate responded on the impact of the scramble of Africa as extract 13.2 shows.

3.4 Question 4

The question was composed from the topic "Rise of Capitalism in Europe". The candidates were to elaborate six reasons which made the abolition of Trans- Atlantic Slave Trade inevitable in the 19th century. Almost a half of all the candidates (55.4%) attempted this question among them eleven candidates (0.2%) scored a 00 mark, 15.4 percent scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks, 20.5 percent scored from 06 to 9.5 marks and 63.9 percent scored from 10 to 18 marks.

The range of 10 to 18 marks featured the candidates whose responses were endowed with relevant arguments basing on points like; industrial revolution, British and French Sugar Competition, possession of enough slaves by the British in the West Indies and the American independence of 1776. The disparities in their scores based on the differences in the depth of their explanation. Extract 14.1 is a sample of a relatively good response in this question

Extract 14.1 is an illustration of a relatively good response in this question which embodies the reasons which made the abolition of slave trade in the 19^{th} century unavoidable.

The candidates who scored from 6 to 10 marks were able to interpret the question correctly though they were subjected to varied shortcomings such as inability to meet the required number of points, providing some irrelevant points and elaborations in their responses and presenting relatively shallow elaborations.

Further more. The candidates who scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks were victims of a lot of distortions like; presenting fewer points than required, partial explanations and scoring a mark from the introduction but going off point in the main body.

The responses of the candidates who scored a 00 mark were either featured by the effect, mechanisms or the difficulties the abolitionists faced during the campaign of abolishing slave trade. Such candidates were probably challenged by the term "inevitability" which was used in the question thus they came out with such haphazard responses. Extract 14.2 shows a part of the candidate's response which was incorrect

Question five (5) instructed the candidates to explain three aims of the New Deal and to examine its five effects in the U.S.A. It was drawn from the topic "Emergence of USA as a New Capitalist Superpower". More than a half (55.2 %) of all the candidates attempted this question and its performance was relatively good as only eight candidates (0.1%) scored a 00 mark, 1.5 percent scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks, 12.2 percent scored from 06 to 9.5 marks while many candidates (86.2%) scored from 10 to 19 marks.

The candidates who scored from 10 to 19 marks were able to explain the aims and effects of the New Deal more correctly. The three aims explained were relief, recovery and reform and some of the effects put forward include provision of relief, welfare benefit and revival of Banking and financial strength. The range of scores from 10 to 19 marks was due to the fact that some candidates demonstrated better understanding of the subject matter than others. Extract 15.1 is an example of a candidate with a good response.

Extract 15.1 shows an example of a candidate who provided relatively good responses on the aims and effects of the New deal in the USA.

The inadequacies observed in the responses of the candidates who scored from 06 to 10 marks include; provision of insufficient explanations and examples on their points and provision of irrelevant answers in part one and relevant answers in the second part of the question or vice versa.

The candidates in the range of 0.5 to 5.5 marks had shortage of points and shallow explanations. Most of them failed to stipulate the aims of the New Deal, hence scored only some few marks on its effects which however were not explained exhaustively.

Like in other questions, the presentations of the candidates who scored a 00 mark were erroneous. They proved to have limited knowledge on the New Deal as their responses deviated from the question demands, for example some centered their explanation on the Great Boom and others examined the effects of USA imperialism. Extract 15.2 indicates a candidate who even failed to realize where the New Deal worked.

Extract 15.2 is an example of a candidate who responded irrelevantly by associating the New Deal with the mechanisms of reviving the British economy in the first part of the question and provided the effects of the Great Boom in the USA in the second part.

3.6 Question 6

Question six (6) was drawn from the topic "Rise of Dictatorship in Germany, Italy and Japan". Candidates were required to analyse six effects of Nazi dictatorship in Germany during the 1930s. It was attempted by 59.4 percent of all the candidates of which only one candidate (0.0%) scored 1 mark, 11.9 percent scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks, 39.1 percent scored from 06 to 9.5 marks and 49 percent scored from 10 to 17.5 marks.

Upper scorers' responses were endowed with detailed explanations and good flow of ideas across their works which proved their possession of adequate knowledge on the dictatorship in Germany. Such candidates were able to present relevant points like; effective organization of the economy, persecution of the Jews, state control of the media and outbreak the Second World War. However, scores for this group ranged from 10 to 17.5 marks depending on the clarity of each individual response. Extract 16 provides a sample of a relatively good response.

Extract 16 is an example of candidate's response which reveals a mastery of the effects of Nazism on Germany.

The range of 06 to 9.5 marks was revealed in the candidates' responses which had insufficient knowledge on the German Nazism. Candidates in this group failed to exhaust the required number of points and others failed to provide well elaborated arguments on some of the points. Some of the candidates however, based their arguments on the general impact of Nazism on Europe and the world at large. Though some of the points had a direct relationship with the impact of Nazism in Germany but such candidates had their marks lowered for not being specific because their responses revealed guesswork.

The candidates who scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks provided partial responses which cold not deserve more marks, for instance, some presented a mixture of ideas between German Nazism and Italian Fascism while others haphazardly wrote several aspects in relation to Nazism such as the causes, internal and external policies which embodied little elements of effects. Such weaknesses limited them to score higher marks.

The candidates could hardly score a 00 mark in this question due to the fact that Nazism and Adolf Hitler are inseparable, yet Hitler is one of the most notable characters in the world history that every candidate would have admired to take hold of his history, however, still one candidate scored a 00 mark after providing arguments basing on Italian fascism.

3.7 Question 7

This question was attempted by only 3,929 (34.9%) candidates. In this question, the candidates were required to examine six reasons for the demise of Russia and the communist bloc. It was composed from the topic "Rise of Socialism". The performance of the candidates was relatively good as only three candidates (0.0%) scored a 00 mark, 6.8 percent scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks, 23.2 percent scored from 06 to 9.5 marks whereas the majority (69.4%) scored from 10 to 18.5.

Scores from 10 to 18.5 marks were awarded to the candidates who were able to expound the reasons for the demise of Russia and the communist bloc by bringing up better arguments on points like, the nationalist pressure within the union, economic stagnation, capitalist maneuvers and rise of weak leaders. More interestingly, many concluded their work by pointing out some effects of the demise of the Communist bloc such as overthrow of Communist regimes and reduction of aid to Third World countries. The disparities of marks among them were caused by their variations in the ability to produce extensively elaborated work. Extract 17.1 portrays a good example of a good response.

Extract 17.1 is a part of an illustration of a candidate who was able to provide a relatively well presented reasons for the demise of Russia and the Communist bloc.

Though candidates who scored from 06 to 9.5 marks showed better understanding of the question, they could not earn higher marks due to their insufficient knowledge on what was desired for higher score. They were affected by inadequate explanations, running short of relevant examples and failure to exhaust the required number of points.

The candidates who scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks demonstrated possession of very little knowledge on the demands of the question. Some for example, scored a mark from only the introduction as they could only tell what the communist bloc was but failed to provide relevant points on the demise of the bloc while others gave few correct points but still could not manage to stress truthfulness on them

The candidates who scored a 00 mark misinterpreted the question by attributing it to the Russian Revolution therefore, gave the reasons for the outbreak of the Russian revolution. Surprisingly, one candidate embraced the reasons for the occurrence of the Cold war probably due to the fact that the communist bloc was involved in this war. Extract 17.2 shows an example of a candidate who misinterpreted the question.

3.8 Question 8

This question instructed the candidates to explain three factors which initiated the Cold War and to analyse three reasons that forced USSR to set a nuclear missile in Cuba. It was coined from the topic "Threats to World Peace after the Second World War". Almost a half (49.5%) of all the candidates attempted this question and its performance was good since only one candidate scored a 00 mark, 2.4 percent scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks, 22.6 percent scored from 6 to 9.5 marks and many candidates (75%) scored from 10 to 18 marks.

The candidates who scored from 10 to 18 marks managed to explain the specific reasons for cold war such as; difference in principles between communism and capitalism, Stalin's foreign policies, hostile attitude of USA and British politicians against the Soviet government, Marshal Plan and emergence of military alliances. Likewise, they explained reasons as to why USSR launched Nuclear Missiles in Cuba by arguing on the points like; the need to defend Cuba, to test the USA and to get an upper hand in the arms race by the USSR. Extract 18.1 provides a sample of a relatively good answer.

Extract 18.1 is a sample of a candidate who was able to give a more elaborated work on the factors for the Cold War and the Cuban Missile crisis.

Candidates whose scores ranged from 06 to 9.5 marks possessed relatively few weaknesses which hindered them from scoring high marks, for example, some relied much on the manifestations of the cold war which slightly explains the causes of the cold war, therefore scored some few marks on the part which required reasons for the Cold War but managed to exhaust the three reasons for the installation of Nuclear Missiles in Cuba. Moreover, despite giving some correct points in either part of the question, a considerable number of candidates distorted their responses by providing inadequate elaborations and false examples in some points.

Some candidates scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks due to poor quality of the responses observed in their essays. Most of them were off points but largely managed to score the little they could from either the introduction or some few points.

A candidate who scored a 00 mark failed to grasp the central theme of the question hence responded on the effects of Cold War. A part of his/her response in extract 18.2 reveals such a case.

Extract 18.2 indicates a candidate who argued on the points which resemble the impact of cold war.

Other points which were pointed out by this candidate include, formation of military camps such as NATO and WARSAW PACT and the collapse of Russia.

3.9 Question 9

This question was set from the topic "Neo-colonialism and the question of Underdevelopment in the Third World Countries". It required the candidates to explain four merits and four demerits of privatization Policy in Tanzania. Of all the questions in this paper, it was the least attempted as only 16.5 of all the candidates attempted it, however, the candidates' performance was good since no any candidate scored a 00 mark and very few candidates scored low marks, that is 4.9 percent scored from 1 to 5.5 marks and 33 percent scored from 6 to 9.5 marks while the majority (62.1%) scored from 10 to 16.5 marks.

The candidates who scored from 10 to 16.5 marks proved their ability in understanding what the question required and possessed enough knowledge on Privatization policies in Tanzania. Their explanations featured points like; increase in production, reduction of government burden, improvement of technology as advantages of Privatization in Tanzania. Moreover, points like reduction in provision of some social services, loss of job and corruption were cited as disadvantages of privatization. Differences in their responses were determined by variations in abilities to meet the required number of points and failure to elaborate deeply and cite specific examples as the result candidates had their scores ranging from 10 to 16.5. Extract 19 provides a sample of a relatively good response.

Extract 19 illustrates a good presentation of the advantages and disadvantages of privatization in Tanzania.

The candidates whose marks ranged from 06 to 10 had some desirable knowledge though they had some few limitations. Some weaknesses which denied most of them the chance for higher score include; failure to provide satisfactory explanations on some points, shortage of specific examples on the Tanzania's situation and inability to meet the demanded number of points. The observed strength was the correct interpretation of the question which enabled them to provide relatively correct points.

The candidates who scored from 01 to 5.5 marks answered the question haphazardly mixing up correct and incorrect responses. Moreover, they were not able to expound their few points effectively and others simply outlined some relevant points.

3.10 Question 10

This question which required the candidates to explain six indicators of underdevelopment was coined from the topic "Neo-colonialism and the question of underdevelopment of Third World Countries". Majority of the candidates (83.1%) opted for it. Such a high frequency was probably attributed by the fact that the issues of underdevelopment are popular among most Tanzanians. Its performance was also good as only three candidates (0.0%) scored a 00 mark, 2.9 percent scored from 0.5 to 5.5 marks, 36 percent scored from 6 to 9.5 marks and 61.5 percent scored from 10 to 17.5 marks.

The candidates who performed well demonstrated greater abilities in their arguments due to possession of enough knowledge on the subject matter. They explained points like; dependent economy, low per capita income, poor social services, low technology and monoculture economy. However, performance in this group varied from 10 to 17.5 marks due to differences in competence of explaining the relevant points accurately in a Tanzanian situation. Extract 20.1 is sample of such a good response.

	Undercovelopment is the situation of being down on issue of economic applied and political underdevelopment does not absence of development but to be low to compare with the absence of development but to be low to compare with the developed countries. Ancan countries is saide to underdeveloped since It kan not the level of European nation on since ped since it kan not the level of European nation on issue a development. Underdavelopment is cause of low level of Technology, political instability, slave trado also Neo-colonialism.
	European nation use strica has a dumping place a goods from Europe that why its remained undeveloped. The following are indicators of undordevelopment.
	Low per capital income; Many people
1	and Nations have low capital that cause the nation to be indicated as poor. Strzan countries tace that problem in which people live poor life and to depend much or the government so that they can get basic need to afford their life.
	Shortage of high qualified people;
	That make people and national to depend on European people to the issue of development. Deople who qualified has not well used in Arran countries like Jamania, so they used a lot of money to employ people from Euro pe to work on different sectors found in Arrea.
	Lack of enough heavy industries; on that issue people depend on demestic industries because the heavy industries are a low and found in small part.
	Africa in order to develop should invest much of heavy industries so that to reduce the proplem of depending goods which are manyfreture from Eliopean industries and to remain undeveloped.

10	Dependence on foreign aids, African countries dopend much on loans from Europe and that is because thomselves can not have basic needs. Forexample Tamania have been depending runch on loans from us and China which made them to become poor since the System of neo-colonialism continue to exist by depending much on other countries.
	Low dovelopment of Agriculture and low life expectancy. The nothers used to produce raw material are of low quality and that cause the problem of line expectancy. People will die because of famine and that cause underdevelopment. & Africans should improve agriculture system to develop further from that level.
	Devaluation of local currency, Many countries Jace the issue of local currecy to docline and led to cause undeveloped state. Amzan state, their currency tall in term of quality and it can became difficult to buy materials in any place. For example the quality of money of Tamania is not like that of USA, wince dollars is on high quality than shilting Therefore underdevelopment is much caused by either internal factors like colonialism unequal trade, Neo-colonialism in which developed countries remain controlling Aman colonies, But also it can be cause by internal factors like low level of technology in Strica Netheral Lisaster which cause economic
i	dependence offereignaid like loam from Europe.

Extract 20.1 is a good illustration of a candidate who managed to explain well the six indicators of underdevelopment.

The candidates who scored from 06 to 9.5 marks managed to meet the required number of points though their explanations were shallow. Other weaknesses observed in their responses include lack of specific examples and failure to meet all the six required points.

Furthermore, the candidates whose marks ranged from 0.5 to 5.5 marks were characterised by several limitations. Most of them failed to meet a required number of points while others responded on the indicators of underdevelopment alongside either the causes or effects of underdevelopment.

The candidates who scored a 00 mark provided wrong responses which certainly had no connection with the question, for example, one candidate responded on the factors which can accelerate development as shown in extract 20.2 below.

4.0 ANALYSIS OF ITEMS PER TOPIC

The performance of the History candidates in the ACSEE 2015 in all the topics was good. Most candidates answered the questions correctly hence scored good marks. Generally, the performance of the ACSEE 2014 and 2015 in all topics were also good since the percentage of candidates who scored an average of 30 percent or more ranged from 86.4 to 99 and 88.10 to 99.35 in 2014 and 2015 respectively. (See Appendix).

5.0 CONCLUSION

Despite the good performance in individual questions and in all the topics, It has been noted that, few candidates with poor quality of responses were influenced by a number of factors such as lack of knowledge of the concept related to the questions, inability to use English language, poor transfer of knowledge and misinterpretation of the questions.

Furthermore, the analysis of the candidates' performance shows that, there were some questions which were relatively avoided to some extent by the candidates. In paper 1, questions three (3), four (4), five (5) and six (6) had a relatively low frequencies while in paper 2, questions three (3), seven (7) and nine (9) were highly omitted. Low frequency in these questions was probably caused by partial coverage of the topics concerned which made some candidates to luck sufficient knowledge on such topics thus disregarded them.

In order to improve the performance of the prospective candidates, all these observations should be addressed by the educational stakeholders.

6.0 RECOMMENDATIONS

Although the performance of candidates in History in both Paper one (112/1) and two (112/2) was good, there were some candidates whose responses were not good in some of the questions and there was some questions which were avoided. In order to improve the performance in History subject, the examiners suggest the following;-

- (a) Teachers should make sure that all topics are well covered so that candidates can be knowledgeable in all specified areas according to the syllabus.
- (b) Students should be encouraged to use English Language in their day to day communications so as to improve their language proficiency.
- (c) Students should be encouraged to read different sources (books, journals and pamphlets) in order to widen their knowledge.
- (d) Teachers are advised to guide the students on how to identify the tasks/requirements of the questions.
